REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

To the Citizens of Loudon:

At the close of our official year it becomes our duty to make to you a report of the state of schools in town, and also school buildings, and such other facts regarding the welfare of the schools as the experience of the board have found. The first great hindrance that we meet with in many schools is a want of interest among the parents and guardians of the pupils. In many of our schools not one parent out of five ever visits the school, or in any way look after its prosperity. And there is a habit altogether too prevalent among parents of listening to the fault-finding talk of their children in regard to their teacher, and of putting altogether too much confidence in their report. Now, the better way is, when our children make complaints about their teacher, to visit the school and see for ourselves whether they have any cause for their complaints; and if we find they have, make it known to the school board, and it is their imperative duty to probe the matter to the bottom and right all wrongs as far as possible. In procuring teachers the board have made it a point to select those of our own town as far as practicable. Most of the schools have been quite satisfactory, but in two or three some changes could have been made for the better. We are often asked the question, as a school board, how we like the new school law and its workings, and in answer we say that we think it something that was wholly and entirely uncalled for by the people of this town. But the practical workings of this system can only be found out by the actual test. There are several things that can be remedied which were overlooked by us during the past year. The law itself is in a very imperfect condition, and school boards have to use their own judgment in very many cases, and are thus placed in very unpleasant circumstances.
